

Shared pretraining and routing

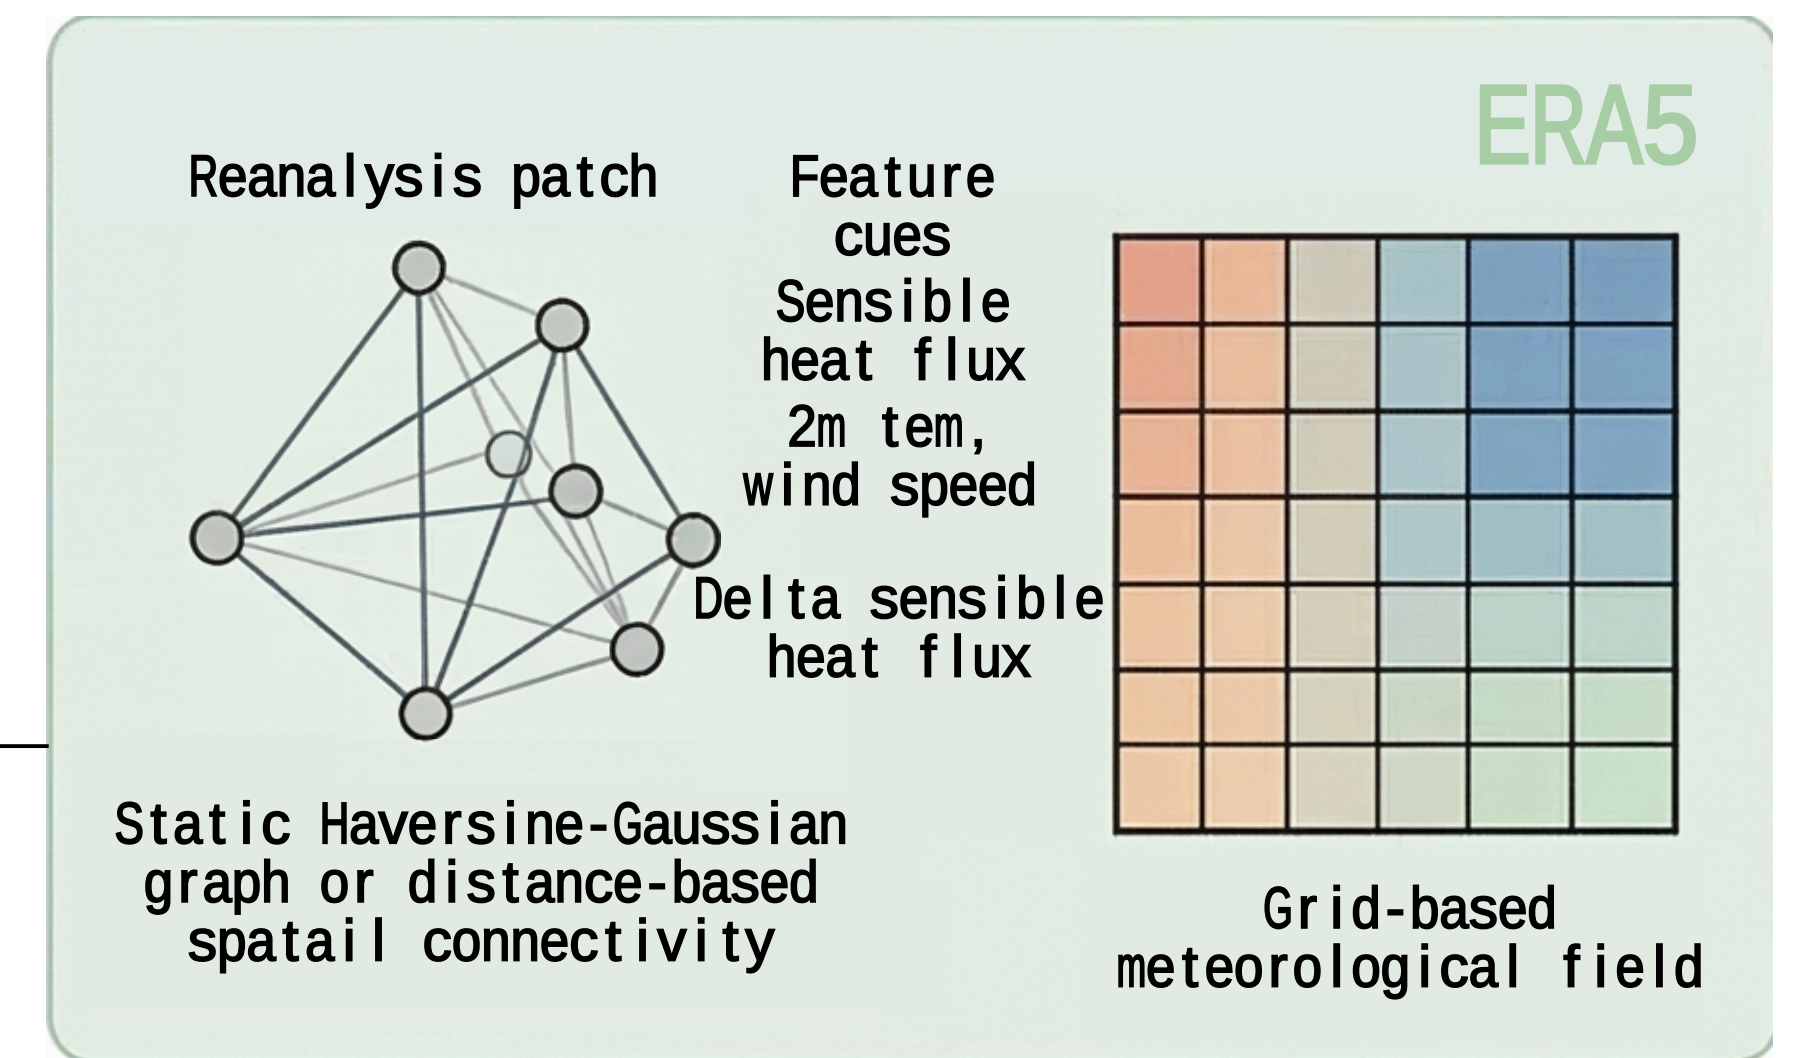

"The same routed architecture behaves differently depending on regime observability."

Observability settings

Forced realignment, where the gate is nudged toward physically meaningful routing

No emergent alignment, withwere the gate naturally organizes according to physical regimes